

LIGHT AND WATER RATES TILTED BY BOARD

HEAVY RAISE IS MADE TO BOND AND INTEREST CHARGES

CHARTER COMMISSION TO BE ASKED TO AMEND THE CITY CHARTER SOON

TO PROVIDE FOR AN INCREASED LEVY OF 2 MILLS ON HYDRANT RENTAL

The water and light board, with all members present on Monday evening, August 1, had one of the most momentous meetings in its history. Faced by the problem of raising money sufficient to provide for ordinary operating expenses plus bond and interest charges of $13,687.50 due on or before January 1, 1922, the board was compelled to act as it did, said the secretary.

Effective August 1 the board ordered raises in water and light rates. It also petitioned the charter commission to call a session and consider a charter amendment providing for an increased hydrant rental of two mills. There are 115 hydrants now paying $35 annually and the increased levy would raise them $50 per hydrant.

If this amendment is voted on favorably by the people, then the present increase in water and light rates, said the secretary, can be reduced correspondingly.

WATER
 Water raised from 40c a thousand gallons to 50c a thousand gallons.
 Minimum raised from $1.50 per quarter to $1 a month.
 Manufacturing rate set at 20c a thousand gallons.
 School rate set at 30c a thousand gallons.

LIGHT
 Electric current raised from 6-1/2c a kilowatt to 10c a kilowatt.
 Minimum raised to $1 a month.

The water and light board was in session until 2 o'clock Tuesday morning wrestling with the problems presented.

More revenue is needed to care for bond and interest charges in addition to regular operating expenses. Here is what is pressing in the way of bond and interest:

$7,500 semi-annual interest on $300,000 new waterworks bond issue due January 1, 1922.

$5,000 bonds due November, 1921 on old bond issue.

$1,187.50 interest due on balance of old bonds of $42,500.

If the charter amendment asked for is approved by the people, said the secretary, then water and light rates can be reduced accordingly.

Water Turned Off Wednesday
 Water will be turned off on the north side west of Seventh street on Wednesday morning at 7:30 o'clock. It is hoped to have the service restored by Thursday morning and if possible to make the change earlier.

The water and light board will repair the line on Main and North Fourth street and extend a service line of eighth inch main from 4th to 3rd streets. The old pipe is rotten and clamps will no longer stay on the pipe.

The board is also putting in a two inch line from Juniper to Kingwood on Second street between two dead ends to give service to the western part of the second ward and avoid a long delay of probably three or four days while laying eight inch pipe on Main between 3rd and 4th street.

Hydrant Rentals

L. P. Wolff of St. Paul, former consulting engineer of the board, made the statement that the hydrant rental of a city is to be determined by the interest on bonds on two-thirds the cost of the plant. This he said was in this ratio because of increased pressure needed for fires and larger mains to supply water for fire purposes.

SMALL ASKS PUBLIC NOT TO JUDGE HIM

SAYS THERE IS NOT ONE IOTA OF EVIDENCE OF ANY WRONG DOING

Kankakee, Ill., Aug. 2.—Governor Lelen Small today appealed to the people not to pre-judge before he had an opportunity to demonstrate his innocence by process of law.

The governor, indicted for alleged juggling of millions in state funds while serving as state treasurer of Illinois, told the United Press "There is not one iota of evidence existing as to any wrong doing on his part."

The executive who has been touring the state on road inspection work since Sheriff Mester at Springfield refused his request to be arrested in Chicago, reiterated he never retained for himself one penny in state funds or interest from Illinois money.

"Up to the time I announced my candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor no person accused me of any wrong doing," he declared.

Attorney General Brundage and his associates have had access to my official records all during the past four years. They have known all the time the exact amount of money which I had in my custody as state treasurer and they knew as I know I am absolutely innocent of every charge made in the indictment voted against me by the Sangamon county grand jury.

FIRE IN NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE DELAYS OPENING

(By United Press)

New York, Aug. 2.—Trading on the New York stock exchange was delayed until noon today because of a fire behind the north end of the enunciation board.

Although the fire was believed to be out at 11 A. M. the trading room was filled with such dense smoke that it was decided to defer start of proceedings another hour.

The fire was believed to have started by crossed wires.

FORD AND EDISON DISCUSS PROSPECTS OF DISARMAMENT

LATTER BELIEVES CONFERENCE WILL FAIL IF MONEY CAN BE GOTTEN FOR MILITARY EXPENSES

Belington, W. Va., Aug. 2.—Keep the nations of the world from obtaining money to prepare for "the next war." If this is done—and America has power to do it—President Harding will succeed in the conference he has called for limitation of armament.

In this manner the situation was summed up today by Thomas Edison, Henry Ford and H. S. Firestone as they sat on the shady bank of a rippling West Virginia mountain brook munching sandwiches and frizzled bacon and talking about disarmament prospects and golf.

They issued a warning that President Harding "must look out for the cars."

The enemies of disarmament, they said, already are busy. The conclusion was that success of the conference depends upon the foresight, courage and determination of the president.

Six cars and two trucks of America's most famous camping party were stretched down the country lane at the improvised camp where Fisher the cook was putting a permanent wave in another bacon and the smoke from the campfire drifted over the heads of the campers.

Edison leaned against the side of a car, Firestone sat upon the runningboard. Ford as eager as a boy of ten, his coat and hat off, his mop of fine white hair combed back from his tanned forehead, moved restlessly about in the grass, or when he became stirred by the talk sprang to his feet and then would drop down on the ground again.

"Do you think Harding can put his disarmament program over?" Ford asked of Edison.

"I don't like to answer that off-hand" replied Edison.

"I would rather hear you say it offhand," retorted Ford. Edison was silent for a moment then he spoke.

"I think it will depend upon the money" he said. "If the money can be found to keep on conducting an army and navy I think the conference will fail. Only absolute lack of money and inability to get more funds to pay for war preparations will force the military element to seek a real disarmament. If Harding can keep them from getting money, he will succeed with the program. It rests pretty largely on him."

"The common people around the world will back him on that," said Ford swiftly. "They are sick and tired of spending money on old and new wars. They are tired of talking of the 'next war'. I have received as many as 2,500 letters in a single day everywhere. People do not object to taxes, when they feel they are getting something back for their money. But they know now that military expenses means waste."

Monday night, when Ole Holmstrom, a male nurse, took food into the ward where McCool and three other insane criminals were lodged, they attacked him. Holmstrom was knocked unconscious and the keys were taken from his hand.

McCool and his companions made their way to an unbarred window. McCool leaped three stories to the ground and apparently did not suffer injuries. The others were still in the window where they were recaptured by another male nurse after a desperate battle. McCool disappeared. Authorities do not believe he was taken away in an airplane, which was seen to arise shortly after McCool escaped, from the landing place at Casota just across the river. They believe that McCool did not have time to get there when the plane rose. They were beating the underbrush between St. Peter and Mankato today in the belief that McCool was hiding in the woods.

NOTED GUNMAN ESCAPES FROM STATE HOSPITAL

ALLEGED TO HAVE MURDERED ST. PAUL OFFICER FOR WHICH HE WAS SENTENCED 30 YEARS

FEIGNS INSANITY AND IS TAKEN TO HOSPITAL—MAKES HIS ESCAPE

St. Paul, Aug. 2.—Police throughout the state today joined in a man hunt for Frank McCool, alleged murderer and gunman who escaped from the state insane hospital at St. Peter last night.

McCool is alleged to have murdered patrolman George Connery in Minneapolis April 24, 1917 and to have been implicated in the brutal murder of Mrs. Alice McQuillan Dunn in St. Paul two days later. He was sentenced to serve thirty years in Stillwater.

Two months ago McCool was taken to St. Peter after several fits of violence which police now believe were feigned.

AMERICAN LEGION HOLDS CONVENTION ON RIVER STEAMER

THE WOMEN'S AUXILIARY ALSO HOLD THEIR CONVENTION ON THE SAME BOAT

SPEECHES URGE LEGION AND AUXILIARY TO WORK FOR BETTER COMPENSATION

Winona, Minn., Aug. 2.—Legionaires of Minnesota were afloat today but not "going across" this time.

Delegates to the annual American Legion convention department of Minnesota, boarded a big river steamer at 9 A. M. and the session was held aboard. The boat was to dock here at 2 P. M. The afternoon session was to be held on the river. The women's auxiliary convention was in session on another deck.

Both sessions were expected to evolve new discussions on the adjusted compensation bill before congress which President Harding has urged be dropped at this session. Speech at the opening session Monday strongly urged Legionnaires and the women's auxiliary to "back up" in favor of compensation, not as a bonus or gift, but as a debt or obligation by the people of the United States to ex-service men.

Mrs. Hughes Heischler, of Mankato, in opening the auxiliary convention as president of the women's department was bitter in her denunciation of the "apathy of the American people to ward compensation for service men."

She urged that women make suggestions to congressmen by showering them with letters.

Dr. A. A. Van Dyke loomed at the session today as the possible selection for next commander. His strong opponent seems to be Dr. I. J. Gates of Kenyon.

Mrs. Heischler is being boomed for the next national president of the women's auxiliary. Mrs. George Squire, of St. Paul and Mrs. J. M. Bishop of Thief River Falls are being boomed to oppose her.

PASSED AWAY AT NAPLES, ITALY AT 4 THIS MORNING

FAILED TO RALLY FROM RELAPSE AFTER AN OPERATION FOR ABSCESS

HAD RECOVERED FROM EFFECTS OF OPERATION FOR PLEURISY LAST WINTER

CAMILLO CIANFARRA

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
 Naples, Italy Aug. 2.—Enrico Caruso, the world's greatest tenor died at four o'clock this morning.

His golden voice was stilled forever when he failed to rally from a relapse following an operation for an abscess.

Caruso's death was expected for several hours before the end came. He never had completely recovered from the effect of an operation for pleurisy which he underwent in New York last winter.

As a result of this operation physicians state, he suffered a diaphragmic abscess. Another operation was performed in an effort to remove the accumulated pus but it left Caruso badly weakened and rapidly sinking.

Last Thursday the famous tenor and his wife, formerly Dorothy Benjamin, went to a sanctuary in the Pompeii valley where he offered prayer of thanks to the virgin for the recovery of his voice. He and his wife heard a mass and he gave twenty thousand francs as a thank offering.

Afterward Caruso visited the excavation of Pompeii.

Saturday he felt a pain in his abdomen. It was the first warning that the final illness was at hand. He called a physician who urged him to go to Naples and consult a specialist. Arriving at Naples Sunday night he called three specialists. After a long consultation the specialists diagnosed his case as acute peritonitis with a tendency to spread. It was decided to operate.

Caruso, who has shown the greatest fortitude when suffering pain, showed remarkable courage and kept up his spirits. However he sank steadily. His agony increased and his strength waned. Injection of camphor was required every two hours to stimulate his fluttering heart. Breath become difficult.

His wife who has maintaining her courage remained at the bedside for hours. She saw her husband steadily drawing near to the gates of death. But she remembered the successful fight he had made against what was considered overwhelming odds during his previous illness in New York and maintained her composure and confidence that he would again weather the storm.

The operation originally had been planned for some time today. During the night specialists saw Caruso was failing so rapidly that they feared he would not survive until dawn so they decided to operate at once. Following the operation surgeons said Caruso's death was only a matter of a few hours.

At 4 a. m. his heart ceased to beat. His relapse was sudden and unexpected. Only one week ago he received a visit from the celebrated tenor Montezani and the soprano Dehialgo before whom he tried his voice. They agreed that it would retain all its former beauty.

Announcement of his burial was not completed today. The singer's American wife was prostrated after her long vigil at his bedside but Caruso's relatives and employees stood ready to take charge of the details.

The death hardly had been announced before condolences began to pour in by wire. They came from all classes—from the humblest peasant to rulers who had decorated him.

It was expected he will be buried after one of the most impressive funerals ever conducted in Italy. Naples speculated but little over that. Caruso was dead and Naples grieved. The

TRYING TO MAKE UP LOST YEARS

AMERICA UNDERTAKING TO DO WHAT WAS PROVIDED FOR IN VERSAILLES TREATY.

REALIZED IN WASHINGTON

Ratification of Pact in 1919 Would Have Speeded Recovery From War Effects and Spared Present Administration Much Trouble.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington.—The new administration is reminded every day that ratification of the Versailles treaty by the United States senate in 1919 would have relieved the administration of a lot of trouble. Everyone of the leading questions relating to international affairs that are now up would have been answered by ratification. There is a general agreement that if the treaty had been disposed of with in a couple of months after it was submitted to the senate on July 10, 1919, the world would, by this time, have been well on the road to recovery from the effects of a great war.

The President, the secretary of state and the attorney general are still trying to find out what a congressional technical peace resolution means. If the treaty had been ratified, no such resolution would ever have been proposed, for it would not have been necessary, and the new administration would have been spared all the worry it has taken on over the problem of what to do with this resolution now that it has it.

No day passes without some influential member of the administration being asked how the United States intends to make constitutional peace with Germany and with Austria-Hungary. The secretary of state undoubtedly feels that he knows the proper way to do the thing; the United States senate feels that it has some information on the subject that is worthy of consideration, and the President is listening to all sides.

Limitation of Armaments.

Public sentiment at home and abroad has compelled the new administration to take the initiative in a movement for limitation of armaments. Obviously, if the Versailles treaty had been ratified, the United States would not have been put to the necessity of inviting the principal allied powers of the world to meet it in a conference on limitation of armaments. The men who wrote the treaty saw clearly that limitation of armaments must come if the world was to be spared a greater burden of taxation than it could bear, and if effective steps toward preserving world peace were to be taken, and so the treaty made provision for taking up the subject of disarmament or limitation of armaments.

The representatives of other nations here while giving the plan for limitation of armaments their cordial support, remark that if the United States had ratified the treaty in the fall of 1919, limitation of armaments would, in all probability, be effective today. It is reasonable to assume, these diplomats point out, that limitation of armaments would have been one of the first steps taken by the League of Nations. Indeed, the council did take up this subject at its first meeting, but because the United States senate had not ratified the treaty, the council did not deem it wise to undertake to commit the other powers to any plan for limitation.

Then there is the association of nations, which the new administration has promised the world. It presents a hard problem—a problem that promises to give the new administration as much trouble as constitutional peace with the central powers of Europe or limitation of armaments. Of course, if the Versailles treaty had been ratified the new administration would not be engaged in trying to plan an association of nations "equally as good" as the League of Nations.

Trying to Catch Up.

The truth is that the United States is today trying to make up for almost two years of lost time in international affairs. In four months and a half the new administration has become convinced that the work of the Paris conference was not, after all, wholly bad. The treaty in its present form can never be accepted by the United States, the administration says—particularly that portion of the treaty providing for the League of Nations—but this government realizes not only the importance but the necessity of the world doing things which the Paris conference said it should do, and for which that conference made provision in the treaty.

The principle underlying the foreign policy of the Harding administration is almost identical with the principle which guided the Wilson administration in dealing with world affairs. The former administration advocated an after-the-war policy of world co-operation. The peace conference at Paris undertook to bring about that co-operation through a League of Nations. The Harding administration seems disposed to go as far as its predecessor in urging world co-operation. It has a way of its own in approaching international subjects; it takes up things which the former administration handled and renames them, but it is striving to attain the same ends which the former administration sought to attain.

Two preachers, one white and the other colored, served rural charges in Mississippi which were coterminous. The negro received a considerably larger salary than his white brother, who asked him if it was not his custom to expel his members who failed to pay. "No, boss," he replied, "we would not like to put the gospel on a money basis. We get them to subscribe, and if they don't pay we turn them out for lying."—Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

Horse Shoe Pitching Notes

In the second tournament held by the Brainerd Horse Shoe Pitching club on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of last week some very remarkable records were made.

Without doubt the score made by Oscar Nelson in the singles when pitching his 200 shoes is a record that will stand against all comers a long time if it ever can be beaten at all.

The contest consisted of fifty shoes pitched on each of the four courts making a total of two hundred shoes, every shoe remaining within eight inches of the stake to count one point and every ringer three. His scores were as follows, 74-71-65-83, total 293. He made 59 ringers including 9 double ringers.

The scores of prize winners and others who competed are as follows: Single—Nelson 293, Beggs 224, Engbretson 222, Kelsven 198, Avery 196, Buckley 192, Magnan 190, Dunbar 182, Russell 177, Bushey 177, Frayer 175, Miller 166, Warner 160, Hicketier 156, Blake 155, Varner 151, Fox 128 and Jelacic 123.

Double—Kelsven and Blake 201, Engbretson and Bushey 183, Miller and Russell 180, Nelson and Warner 177, Beggs and Buckley 177, Frayer and Jelacic 174, Varner and Avery 173 and Dunbar and Hicketier 158.

In the singles there was a handicap as follows, Nelson and Engbretson each 40 points, Kelson 20 points, Beggs, Miller, Magnan and Frayer each 10 points.

ENIRCO CARUSO, WORLD'S GREATEST TENOR IS DEAD

only consolation was that Caruso claimed in every section of the world as a favorite, had come home to die.

SON BOWED WITH GRIEF

Culver, Ind., Aug. 2.—Mimi Caruso, son of the great tenor who died today in Naples, was bowed in grief when informed by the United Press of his father's death. The son, who has been staying at Culver Military Academy, was stricken with sorrow and could not talk of his plans. He has not decided whether to leave for Italy pending receipt of word from Naples.

CAN'T REPLACE HIM

New York, Aug. 2.—"There is nobody who can replace Caruso. He was the world's greatest singer. There never was an artist like him and there never will be his like again."

That is how Alfred Human, director and editor of the Musical World of America, answered the question put to him today by the United Press: "Who can replace Caruso?"

"Caruso," said Human, "was a unique figure—I might say the most unique in all history of music. There has never been a single man, artist or composer, with such remarkable personality as the great hearted man who lulled sorrow and stirred the emotions of thousands as no other could."

"Even a man like Beethoven failed where Caruso gained the reward of a deserving world acclamation."

To explain in words what the instrument will do is an impossibility. The only way for anyone to appreciate its wonderful performance, is to hear it.

Realizing this, we have arranged a great series of concerts of which this is one, in which the playing of the above named artists and many others will be reproduced by the Apollo.

Do not miss the opportunity of hearing this new epoch-making instrument. You will hear music played better than you have ever heard it played before, the memory of which will remain with you forever.

You are cordially invited to this concert which will be given

A New Instrument of a New Era

As makers of the first 88 note player piano and specialists in the development of artistic Grand Pianos and Reproducing Pianos, we know we are offering an instrument far beyond anything previously manufactured.

It does away with the old fashioned, loud sounding, "mechanical" player piano.

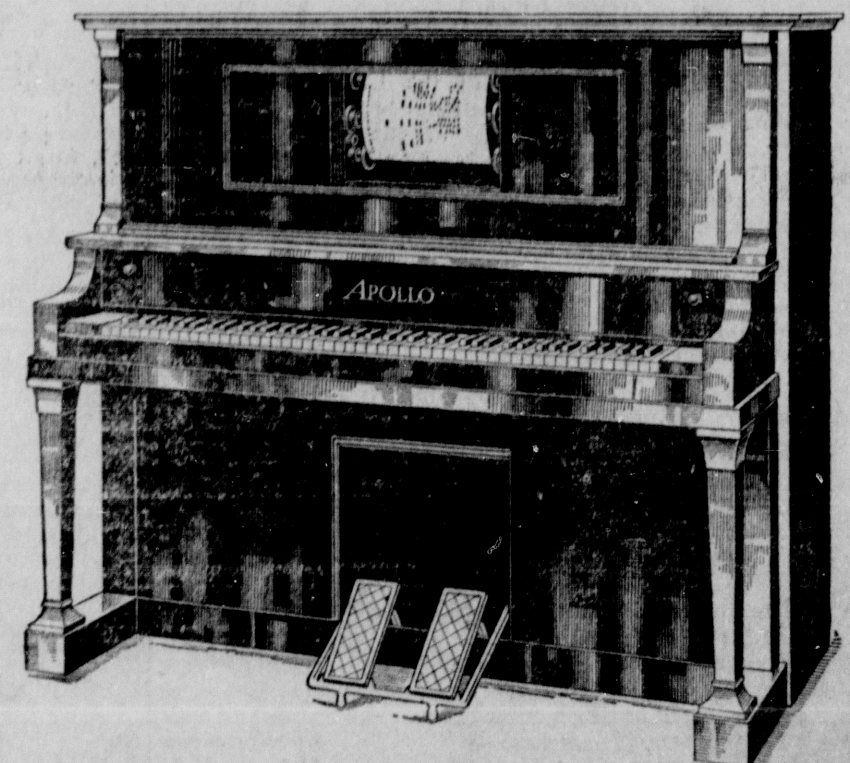

No skill is required for its operation. You can play it with beautiful expression the very first time you try.

It pedals easier than the ordinary player because of the celebrated Apollo spring motor.

Do not fail to hear the Apollo.

LIGHT AND WATER RATES TILTED BY BOARD

HEAVY RAISE IS MADE TO BOND AND INTEREST CHARGES

CHARTER COMMISSION TO BE ASKED TO AMEND THE CITY CHARTER SOON

TO PROVIDE FOR AN INCREASED LEVY OF 2 MILLS ON HYDRANT RENTAL

The water and light board, with all members present on Monday evening, August 1, had one of the most momentous meetings in its history. Faced by the problem of raising money sufficient to provide for ordinary operating expenses plus bond and interest charges of $13,687.50 due on or before January 1, 1922, the board was compelled to act as it did, said the secretary.

Effective August 1 the board ordered raises in water and light rates.

It also petitioned the charter commission to call a session and consider a charter amendment providing for an increased hydrant rental of two mills. There are 115 hydrants now paying $35 annually and the increased levy would raise them $50 per hydrant.

If this amendment is voted on favorably by the people, then the present increase in water and light rates, said the secretary, can be reduced correspondingly.

WATER
Water raised from 40c a thousand gallons to 50c a thousand gallons.
Minimum raised from $3.50 per quarter to $1 a month.
Manufacturing rate set at 20c a thousand gallons.
School rate set at 30c a thousand gallons.

LIGHT
Electric current raised from 6-1/2c a kilowatt to 10c a kilowatt.
Minimum raised to $1 a month.

The water and light board was in session until 2 o'clock Tuesday morning wrestling with the problems presented.

More revenue is needed to care for bond and interest charges in addition to regular operating expenses. Here is what is pressing in the way of bond and interest:

$7,500 semi-annual interest on $300,000 new waterworks bond issue due January 1, 1922.

$5,000 bonds due November, 1921 on old bond issue.

$1,187.50 interest due on balance of old bonds of $42,500.

If the charter amendment asked for is approved by the people, said the secretary, then water and light rates can be reduced accordingly.

Water Turned Off Wednesday
Water will be turned off on the north side west of Seventh street on Wednesday morning at 7:30 o'clock. It is hoped to have the service restored by Thursday morning and if possible to make the change earlier.

The water and light board will repair the line on Main and North Fourth street and extend a service line of eighth inch main from 4th to 3rd streets. The old pipe is rotten and clamps will no longer stay on the pipe.

The board is also putting in a two inch line from Juniper to Kingwood on Second street between two dead ends to give service to the western part of the second ward and avoid a long delay of probably three or four days while laying eight inch pipe on Main between 3rd and 4th street.

Drinking Fountains
The board discussed putting in drinking fountains, one at the city hall and one on the boulevard at the Y. M. C. A. and if arrangements can be made with the city council these two will be installed in the near future.

Hydrant Rentals

L. P. Wolff of St. Paul, former consulting engineer of the board, made the statement that the hydrant rental of a city is to be determined by the interest on bonds on two-thirds the cost of the plant. This he said was in this ratio because of increased pressure needed for fires and larger mains to supply water for fire purposes.

SMALL ASKS PUBLIC NOT TO JUDGE HIM

SAYS THERE IS NOT ONE IOTA OF EVIDENCE OF ANY WRONG DOING

Kankakee, Ill., Aug. 2.—Governor LeFlen Small today appealed to the people not to pre-judge before he had an opportunity to demonstrate his innocence by process of law.

The governor, indicted for alleged juggling of millions in state funds while serving as state treasurer of Illinois, told the United Press "There is not one iota of evidence existing as to any wrong doing on his part."

The executive who has been touring the state on road inspection work since Sheriff Mester at Springfield refused his request to be arrested in Chicago, reiterated he never retained for himself one penny in state funds or interest from Illinois money.

"Up to the time I announced my candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor no person accused me of any wrong doing," he declared.

Attorney General Brundage and his associates have had access to my official records all during the past four years. They have known all the time the exact amount of money which I had in my custody as state treasurer and they knew as I know I am absolutely innocent of every charge made in the indictment voted against me by the Sangamon county grand jury.

FIRE IN NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE DELAYS OPENING

(By United Press)

New York, Aug. 2.—Trading on the New York stock exchange was delayed until noon today because of a fire behind the north end of the enunciation board.

Although the fire was believed to be out at 11 A. M. the trading room was filled with such dense smoke that it was decided to defer start of proceedings another hour.

The fire was believed to have started by crossed wires.

FORD AND EDISON DISCUSS PROSPECTS OF DISARMAMENT

LATTER BELIEVES CONFERENCE WILL FAIL IF MONEY CAN BE GOTTEN FOR MILITARY EXPENSES

Belington, W. Va., Aug. 2.—Keep the nations of the world from obtaining money to prepare for "the next war."

If this is done—and America has power to do it—President Harding will succeed in the conference he has called for limitation of armament.

In this manner the situation was summed up today by Thomas Edison, Henry Ford and H. S. Firestone as they sat on the shady bank of a rippling West Virginia mountain brook munching sandwiches and frizzled bacon and talking about disarmament prospects and golf.

They issued a warning that President Harding "must look out for the cars."

The enemies of disarmament, they said, already are busy. The conclusion was that success of the conference depends upon the foresight, courage and determination of the president.

Six cars and two trucks of America's most famous camping party, were stretched down the country lane at the improvised camp where Fisher the cook was putting a permanent wave in another bacon and the smoke from the campfire drifted over the heads of the campers.

Edison leaned against the side of a car, Firestone sat upon the runningboard. Ford as eager as a boy of ten, his coat and hat off, his mop of fine white hair combed back from his tanned forehead, moved restlessly about in the grass, or when he became stirred by the talk sprang to his feet and then would drop down on the ground again.

"Do you think Harding can put his disarmament program over?" Ford asked of Edison.

"I don't like to answer that off-hand" replied Edison.

"I would rather hear you say it offhand," retorted Ford. Edison was silent for a moment then he spoke "I think it will depend upon the money" he said. "If the money can be found to keep on conducting an army and navy I think the conference will fail. Only absolute lack of money and inability to get more funds to pay for war preparations will force the military element to seek a real disarmament. If Harding can keep them from getting money, he will succeed with the program. It rests pretty largely on him."

"The common people around the world will back him on that," said Ford swiftly. "They are sick and tired of spending money on old and new wars. They are tired of talking of the 'next war'. I have received as many as 2,500 letters in a single day everywhere. People do not object to taxes, when they feel they are getting something back for their money. But they know now that military expenses means waste."

NOTED GUNMAN ESCAPES FROM STATE HOSPITAL

ALLEGED TO HAVE MURDERED ST. PAUL OFFICER FOR WHICH HE WAS SENTENCED 30 YEARS

FEIGNS INSANITY AND IS TAKEN TO HOSPITAL—MAKES HIS ESCAPE

St. Paul, Aug. 2.—Police throughout the state today joined in a man hunt for Frank McCool, alleged murderer and gunman who escaped from the state insane hospital at St. Peter last night.

McCool is alleged to have murdered patrolman George Connery in Minneapolis April 24, 1917 and to have been implicated in the brutal murder of Mrs. Alice McQuillan Dunn in St. Paul two days later. He was sentenced to serve thirty years in Stillwater.

Two months ago McCool was taken to St. Peter after several fits of violence which police now believe were feigned.

Monday night, when Ole Holmstrom, a male nurse, took food into the ward where McCool and three other insane criminals were lodged, they attacked him. Holmstrom was knocked unconscious and the keys were taken from his hand.

McCool and his companions made their way to an unbarred window. McCool leaped three stories to the ground and apparently did not suffer injuries. The others were still in the window where they were recaptured by another male nurse after a desperate battle. McCool disappeared. Authorities do not believe he was taken away in an airplane, which was seen to arise shortly after McCool escaped, from the landing place at Casota just across the river. They believe that McCool did not have time to get there when the plane rose. They were beating the underbrush between St. Peter and Mankato today in the belief that McCool was hiding in the woods.

SLADE GETS A NEW RAIL POST

(By United Press)

Colonel George T. Slade, former vice president of the Northern Pacific railroad and operating chief of the military railways overseas during the World War, has been elected director of the Erie railroad. Mr. Slade, now heading the Montana oil interests of the Northern Pacific, and Frank L. Polk as director of the Erie succeed the late Francis Stetson and Ogden Mills, who resigned.

AMERICAN LEGION HOLDS CONVENTION ON RIVER STEAMER

THE WOMEN'S AUXILIARY ALSO HOLD THEIR CONVENTION ON THE SAME BOAT

SPEECHES URGE LEGION AND AUXILIARY TO WORK FOR BETTER COMPENSATION

Winona, Minn., Aug. 2.—Legionaires of Minnesota were afloat today but not "going across" this time.

Delegates to the annual American Legion convention department of Minnesota, boarded a big river steamer at 9 A. M. and the session was held aboard. The boat was to dock here at 2 P. M. The afternoon session was to be held on the river. The women's auxiliary convention was in session on another deck.

Both sessions were expected to evolve new discussions on the adjusted compensation bill before congress which President Harding has urged be dropped at this session. Speech at the opening session Monday strongly urged Legionaires and the women's auxiliary to "buck up" in favor of compensation, not as a bonus or gift, but as a debt or obligation by the people of the United States to ex service men.

Mrs. Hughes Heischler, of Mankato, in opening the auxiliary convention as president of the women's department was bitter in her denunciation of the "apathy of the American people toward compensation for service men."

She urged that women make suggestions to congressmen by showering them with letters.

Dr. A. A. Van Dyke loomed at the session today as the possible selection for next commander. His strong opponent seems to be Dr. I. J. Gates of Kenyon.

Mrs. Heischler is being named for the next national president of the women's auxiliary. Mrs. George Squire, of St. Paul and Mrs. J. M. Bishop of Thief River Falls are being boomed to oppose her.

(By United Press)

The Pas, Manitoba, Aug. 2.—The party of eight Minnesotans men who left The Pas June 22 on a trip to Hudson Bay, arrived back today after a journey by canoe of fifteen hundred miles through country seldom visited by white men.

The party comprised four brothers, Frank M., Nelson, George K. and Chas. March, three sons of Nelson D. March, and son of Chas. H. March. Nelson and Charles H. are lawyers and bankers of Litchfield, and George K. is contractor of Spokane, Washington. The object of the trip was educative.

They visited Fort Churchill, branching off from Hudson Bay railroad and encountering 194 rapids in one river alone, they went down to Port Nelson, a twenty-four hour trip.

BRITISH DROP IDEA OF PACIFIC CONFERENCE BEFORE CONVENTION

(By United Press)

London, Aug. 2.—The British government has dropped the project of a preliminary conference to President Harding's proposed disarmament conference. It was stated today.

The conference of British premiers, which has been agitating for such a preliminary meeting to discuss the Pacific problem, has finished and will adjourn soon. Premier Meighan of Canada has already withdrawn and is enroute to Canada.

RESERVE BANK DISCRIMINATE AGAINST AGRICULTURAL

(By United Press)

Washington, Aug. 2.—Charges that the Federal Reserve Board has discriminated against the agricultural interests in the favor of eastern manufacturers, were made today by John Shelton Williams, former comptroller of currency, before joint senate and house agricultural committee.

Williams asserted that the board has discounted a much greater per cent of paper in eastern banks than in the farming section.

Sauk Center, Aug. 2.—"It should be the aim of the state to have as few people as possible in the state institutions," Governor Presus said today in addressing a quarterly conference of the state board of control and superintending of seventeen state institutions.

The conference was held at the state home for girls here.

PASSED AWAY AT NAPLES, ITALY AT 4 THIS MORNING

FAILED TO RALLY FROM RELAPSE AFTER AN OPERATION FOR ABSCESS

HAD RECOVERED FROM EFFECTS OF OPERATION FOR PLEURISY LAST WINTER

CAMILLO CIANFARRA

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Naples, Italy Aug. 2.—Enrico Caruso, the world's greatest tenor died at four o'clock this morning.

His golden voice was stilled forever when he failed to rally from a relapse following an operation for an abscess.

Caruso's death was expected for several hours before the end came. He never had completely recovered from the effect of an operation for pleurisy which he underwent in New York last winter.

As a result of this operation physicians state, he suffered a diaphragmic abscess. Another operation was performed in an effort to remove the accumulated pus but it left Caruso badly weakened and rapidly sinking.

Last Thursday the famous tenor and his wife, formerly Dorothy Benjamin, went to a sanctuary in the Pompeii valley where he offered prayer of thanks to the virgin for the recovery of his voice. He and his wife heard a mass and he gave twenty thousand francs as a thank offering.

Afterward Caruso visited the excavation of Pompeii.

Saturday he felt a pain in his abdomen. It was the first warning that the final illness was at hand. He called a physician who urged him to go to Naples and consult a specialist. Arriving at Naples Sunday night he called three specialists. After a long consultation the specialists diagnosed his case as acute peritonitis with a tendency to spread. It was decided to operate.

Caruso, who has shown the greatest fortitude when suffering pain, showed remarkable courage and kept up his spirits. However he sank steadily. His agony increased and his strength waned. Injection of camphor was required every two hours to stimulate his fluttering heart. Breath became difficult.

His wife who has maintaining her courage remained at the bedside for hours. She saw her husband steadily drawing near to the gates of death. But she remembered the successful fight he had made against what was considered overwhelming odds during his previous illness in New York and maintained her composure and confidence that he would again weather the storm.

The operation originally had been planned for some time today. During the night specialists saw Caruso was failing so rapidly that they feared he would not survive until dawn so they decided to operate at once. Following the operation surgeons said Caruso's death was only a matter of a few hours.

At 4 a. m. his heart ceased to beat. His relapse was sudden and unexpected. Only one week ago he received a visit from the celebrated tenor Montezani and the soprano Dehilaigo before whom he tried his voice. They agreed that it would retain all its former beauty.

Announcement of his burial was not completed today. The singer's American wife was prostrated after her long vigil at his bedside but Caruso's relatives and employees stood ready to take charge of the details. The death hardly had been announced before condolences began to pour in by wire. They came from all classes—from the humblest peasant to rulers who had decorated him.

It was expected he will be buried after one of the most impressive funerals ever conducted in Italy. Naples speculated but little over that. Caruso was dead and Naples grieved. The

HOWARD ELLIOT OPTIMISTIC

Howard Elliot, chairman of the Northern Pacific railway, has returned from a 6,000 mile tour of the Pacific northwest and Canada, and is quite optimistic over the outlook. "Everywhere I went," he said, "there was a feeling of hope and belief that conditions would be better; and in few places did I find any feeling of pessimism. The economic upheaval in North Dakota seems to have done its worst."

"The outlook for agricultural production is good. Minnesota crops will be above the average and North Dakota's will be considerable. Even though the excessive heat and drought of the last three weeks have reduced the prospects, Montana, Idaho, Oregon and Washington will have a production in grain, grasses and fruits above the average crops in the Northern Pacific states will be good taken as a whole."

CAUSE OF FOREST FIRES

W. T. Cox, state forester, presented some interesting figures in a report just completed. Forest fires in Northern Minnesota burned over an area of 38,243 acres, causing damage estimated at more than $50,000, during March and up to July 1 last. The service of 1,573 fire fighters were required to combat this forest menace. The number of fires reported during the period named was 278, of which 48 are attributed to railroads, 49 to brush burning, 11 to burning meadows, 71 to unknown origin, 13 to autoist and campers, 2 to road crews, 1 to lightning, and 2 were reported as being maliciously set, the cause of 69 fires was not recorded by the various northwest rangers.

Announcement is made by Secretary Weeks that since March 1, 1921 the force of the civilians employed by the War Department in the District of Columbia and outside, aggregating 90,106 persons, has been reduced by 21,174, making an estimated annual saving of $35,508,800. Secretary Weeks said that further reductions would be made gradually as public business permitted.

The blueberry crop was very light in the vicinity of Brainerd this year but it appears to have been good throughout the northwestern part of the state. The cannery at Brandette has canned over fifty tons of blueberries this season.

Secretary Hoover has sent letters to the governors of the various states to let their contracts for road construction in the fall rather than in the spring, as a means of relieving the unemployment situation. This would give the men employment during the winter.

In his effort toward disarmament President Harding appears to have the hearty good wishes of many of his political opponents.

Hard Question to Answer.

Bobbie was fond of big words, and never let a chance slip by of using one. He did not, however, always get them in the right place. He was sick abed with an attack of measles. The doctor calling one day, took up a hand mirror and showed Bobbie how he looked. Bobbie gazed at his mottled face disgustedly in the mirror, and then looking up to the doctor, asked, "When do you think I will be back to civilization?"

Manufacturing Billiard Balls.

Quite large elephant tusks are a requisite in the making of billiard balls. They are first cut into the required length, forming blocks from which the balls are to be carved. These blocks are placed in the hands of expert tracers who mark the standard measurements of circumference, after which the block goes to the cutter and is gradually cut by machine into spherical form. The process of polishing is done after six months, during which period the balls are kept in special dark drying chambers.

RESERVES TO BE MADE EFFECTIVE

SOME OUTSTANDING FEATURES OF NEW MILITARY POLICY OF THE GOVERNMENT.

PLAN FOR NATIONAL DEFENSE

Surplus Officers of Regular Army to Develop the Volunteer Organizations That Will Constitute War Force in Event of Emergency.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington.—Under the new military policy of the government the reserve officers' training corps and the citizens' training corps became an essential part of the fighting organization. Available officers and enlisted men of the regular army may be assigned appropriate duties in connection with the National Guard, the organized reserve officers' training corps and the training camps. Citizen officers are to join with regular officers on the general staff in the preparation of policies relating to the organization and training of the National Guard and the organized reserves.

The war force required for immediate mobilization in the event of emergency is to be constituted in time of peace and filled as far as practicable through the enrollment or enlistment of qualified volunteers. Under such a system it is reasonable to expect that the units of the National Guard will be maintained at sufficient strength to be effective as a first re-enforcement for the regular army, and that the units of the organized reserves will at least include a corps of officers, noncommissioned officers and specialists, organized and trained to receive and train recruits required in an emergency demanding the large forces.

It is with the requirements of this larger war establishment in view that the peace organization of the regular army must be determined. The law provides a limited number of regular enlisted men and a number of regular officers in excess of the number required for service with the regular army proper.

Work for Surplus Officers.

This provision shows clearly the intention of congress that a portion of the officers authorized are to be employed in the organization, administration and development of the National Guard, the organized reserves, the reserve officers' training corps and the citizens' training camps. It is the President's desire that the regular army shall be so organized as to carry out this intent of congress to the fullest extent.

As the regular army now contains more regiments and other units than can be maintained at effective strength with the authorized enlisted personnel, it is proposed to retain a suitable number of units at an enlisted strength effective for immediate military service and to place the units thus rendered surplus "out of commission" until such time as congress shall authorize an increase in the enlisted strength of the regular army. There will be assigned to the organizations retained "in commission" a sufficient number of officers to make them effective for immediate military service, leaving officers not required for service with regular organizations or otherwise to be employed in the development of the National Guard, the organized reserves and the reserve officers' training corps. As the law provides for a military expansion by reinforcement of the regular army from the organized citizen forces, the President has directed that these forces shall be developed to the fullest extent, and that the maximum practicable number of carefully selected officers of the regular army be employed for that purpose. The retention in the regular army of skeletonized military units ineffective for immediate military service is not deemed advisable.

Will Effect Economies.

It is the view of the administration that the organization of the regular army into a limited number of effective military units will not only release a greater proportion of officers for duty with the other portions of the army of the United States, but will facilitate great economies in the maintenance of the peace establishment. So far as practicable it is the desire of the department that the regular army should be quartered in permanent military posts where suitable shelter for officers and men is now provided. This will reduce the number of occupied war-time cantonments to a minimum and will avoid the necessity of expending large sums for their maintenance or removal.

As the secretary of war interprets the intent of congress in providing for the division of the country into corps areas, their primary object is to form decentralized organization for the promotion and development of the National Guard, the organized reserves and the reserve officers' training corps. The secretary of war has notified old officers that it is his desire that corps area commanders should be liberally supplied with competent officers to assist them in the performance of their duties, and should be held responsible for the development of the national military resources within their several areas as prescribed by law.

AMUSEMENTS

At the Lyceum
 "A Master Stroke" is the title of the Earle Williams feature which is being shown at the Lyceum theater tonight for the last time.

It is an adaptation from a popular novel by Frederic Van Rensselaer Dey, the scenario having been prepared by H. Thompson Rich and Lucien Hubbard. The story is written on an exciting Wall street theme, and the leading role fits Mr. Williams well. It is a tense story, filled with thrills, many of which were taken in the mountains near Los Angeles.

May Allison Coming

"The Last Card," which will be shown tomorrow at the Lyceum theater, where it comes for a run of two days, has several features about it which make it stand out distinctively from the average type of pictures.

It is a Bayard Veiller production, personally directed by the famous author of "Within the Law," "The Thirteenth Chair" and other stirring melodramas; it was adapted from "Dated," the story by Maxwell Smith, which created such a sensation when it appeared in the covers of the Saturday Evening Post; and last but not least, it is a picture with May Allison in the stellar role.

The Double Star Program at the New Park Very Pleasing

The new departure of running two star's on one program certainly make a splendid evenings entertainment.

As a farmer boy with a burning desire to make a name for himself as a detective, Charles Ray gives a spirited and pleasing performance in "A Village Sleuth."

Winifred Westover makes an attractive leading woman for Mr. Ray. Jerry Storm directed and Agnes Christine Johnston wrote the story. Thomas Santschi in "Outside the Border" gives a wonderful portrayal of brother love and self sacrifice, in this first of his western features. The program pleased everyone and will be repeated again tonight for the last time. If you like real entertainment don't miss this.

Tomorrow Elsie Ferguson in "Lady Roses Daughter" will be the feature attraction.

Fifty Years of Life.

A French statistician has been dabbling with figures to find out just what man does with that precious thing called time. He concludes that at the age of fifty years the average man has slept 6,000 days, worked 6,500, walked 800, amused himself 4,000, spent 1,500 eating, and has been ill 500 days.

"Lobby" and "Lobbyists."

The word lobby is derived from the Latin "lobia," a portico, covered way or gallery, and in the modern sense refers to such a hall as an anteroom in a theater or adjacent to a legislative or audience chamber, where private persons are permitted to enter for the purpose of consulting with the members. In the political vocabulary of the United States, the term refers also to the persons who frequent this place for the purpose of influencing the votes of the legislators. Hence they are called "lobbyists" and their business "lobbying."

TRYING TO MAKE UP LOST YEARS

AMERICA UNDERTAKING TO DO WHAT WAS PROVIDED FOR IN VERSAILLES TREATY.

REALIZED IN WASHINGTON

Ratification of Pact in 1919 Would Have Speeded Recovery From War Effects and Spared Present Administration Much Trouble.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington.—The new administration is reminded every day that ratification of the Versailles treaty by the United States senate in 1919 would have relieved the administration of a lot of trouble. Everyone of the leading questions relating to international affairs that are now up would have been answered by ratification. There is a general agreement that if the treaty had been disposed of within a couple of months after it was submitted to the senate on July 10, 1919, the world would, by this time, have been well on the road to recovery from the effects of a great war.

The President, the secretary of state and the attorney general are still trying to find out what a congressional technical peace resolution means. If the treaty had been ratified, no such resolution would ever have been proposed, for it would not have been necessary, and the new administration would have been spared all the worry it has taken on over the problem of what to do with this resolution now that it has it.

No day passes without some influential member of the administration being asked how the United States intends to make constitutional peace with Germany and with Austria-Hungary. The secretary of state undoubtedly feels that he knows the proper way to do the thing; the United States senate feels that it has some information on the subject that is worthy of consideration, and the President is listening to all sides.

Limitation of Armaments.

Public sentiment at home and abroad has compelled the new administration to take the initiative in a movement for limitation of armaments. Obviously, if the Versailles treaty had been ratified, the United States would not have been put to the necessity of inviting the principal allied powers of the world to meet it in a conference on limitation of armaments. The men who wrote the treaty saw clearly that limitation of armaments must come if the world was to be spared a greater burden of taxation than it could bear, and if effective steps toward preserving world peace were to be taken, and so the treaty made provision for taking up the subject of disarmament or limitation of armaments.

The representatives of other nations here while giving the plan for limitation of armaments their cordial support, remark that if the United States had ratified the treaty in the fall of 1919, limitation of armaments would, in all probability, be effective today. It is reasonable to assume, these diplomats point out, that limitation of armaments would have been one of the first steps taken by the League of Nations. Indeed, the council did take up this subject at its first meeting, but because the United States senate had not ratified the treaty, the council did not deem it wise to undertake to commit the other powers to any plan for limitation. Then there is the association of nations, which the new administration has promised the world. It presents a hard problem—a problem that promises to give the new administration as much trouble as constitutional peace with the central powers of Europe or limitation of armaments. Of course, if the Versailles treaty had been ratified the new administration would not be engaged in trying to plan an association of nations "equally as good" as the League of Nations.

Trying to Catch Up.

The truth is that the United States is today trying to make up for almost two years of lost time in international affairs. In four months and a half the new administration has become convinced that the work of the Paris conference was not, after all, wholly bad. The treaty in its present form can never be accepted by the United States, the administration says—particularly that portion of the treaty providing for the League of Nations—but this government realizes not only the importance but the necessity of the world doing things which the Paris conference said it should do, and for which that conference made provision in the treaty.

The principle underlying the foreign policy of the Harding administration is almost identical with the principle which guided the Wilson administration in dealing with world affairs. The former administration advocated an after-the-war policy of world co-operation. The peace conference at Paris undertook to bring about that co-operation through a League of Nations. The Harding administration seems disposed to go as far as its predecessor in urging world co-operation. It has a way of its own in approaching international subjects; it takes up things which the former administration handled and renames them, but it is striving to attain the same ends which the former administration sought to attain.

The Pineapple Plant.

The pineapple plant which is a biennial, grows about two feet high and produces a single axis and flower stalk. The fleshy part of the stalk forms the fruit, which is crowned by a cluster of leaves. It was introduced into Europe by the Spaniards after their explorations in South America. The earliest mention of the pineapple in England was made by John Evelyn, English author, in his "Diary," in which he speaks of having tasted a pineapple from Barbados at the table of Charles II.

Changing the Basis.

Two preachers, one white and the other colored, served rural charges in Mississippi which were coterminous. The negro received a considerably larger salary than his white brother, who asked him if it was not his custom to expel his members who failed to pay. "No, boss," he replied, "we would not like to put the gospel on a money basis. We get them to subscribe, and if they don't pay we turn them out for lying."—Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

COUNCIL SESSION MONDAY EVENING

Routine Matters Are Considered, All Members Present at Meeting Except Two

DAIRY INSPECTOR'S SALARY

To be Set by Finance Committee—George H. Gardner New Special Municipal Judge

All the members of the council were present Monday evening at the first meeting of the month except Aldermen Michael and Koop.

Lateral Sewer

Olaf Johnson requested the council use its utmost power to construct a lateral sewer in the vicinity of 10th, Grove and Fir streets. It was referred to the finance committee.

William's Complaint

Commissioner A. G. Anderson spoke in behalf of Mr. Williams who requested further work done on the boulevard adjacent to his residence on 14th and Oak streets. The boulevard was used by traffic on Oak street during the paving and was quite badly used up.

Alderman Anderson moved and the motion carried that the contractor place proper kind of dirt on boulevard.

Complaint on Streets

On motion of Aldermen Anderson and Cordes, carried, the communication of E. VanWalk relating to the condition of streets at Elm and Second street N. E. Brainerd, be referred to the street and sewer committee.

Carnival Site

On motion of Aldermen Anderson and Quannstrom, carried, the Home Town Carnival is to camp on Front street from 4th street west to Bluff.

On motion of Aldermen Lyonais and Cordes, carried, the band will play at the street carnival at its next concert.

Clean Up Oak Street

The city engineer is to address Contractor S. A. Riches, and ask him to clean up Oak street.

Sewer Matter

A discussion of sewer extensions followed and the burden was shifted to the shoulders of the finance committee.

Cleaning Light Globes

Alderman Holmstrom reported it would cost 50c a post to clean globes. He left it to the council to decide. On motion of Aldermen Lyonais and Cordes, carried, the water and light board is to be requested to have the globes cleaned.

Filling Stations

The ordinance licensing filling stations was adopted.

Dairy Inspector

On motion of Aldermen Anderson and Lyonais, carried, the finance committee is to set the salary for the dairy inspector.

Special Judge

Former Senator George H. Gardner was nominated special municipal judge by Governor Preus and the council was so informed.

Lund Road

On motion of Aldermen Anderson and Holmstrom, carried, the request for repair of the "Lund road" was left with the city engineer.

Light Petition

A petition for installing a street light at Bluff and Juniper was referred to the electric light committee.

Alderman Anderson said there was no drinking fountain for people and it was left to him to recommend a location.

An auxiliary fire truck is needed while the big truck is being repaired. On motion of Aldermen Lyonais and Quannstrom, carried, such provision is to be made.

Chief Henry McGinn spoke of sawdust fires and that they burned for months like a peat fire. The Jerry Howe sawdust fire burned 15 years after the mill quit. The fact whether accumulations of sawdust shall be considered a nuisance was referred to the fire committee and city attorney. A recent sawdust fire cost the city $100 to fight it.

The poor committee has several cases to be taken care of and bids are to be asked for the care of various charges.

Emery Brothers of the Ransford billiard parlor were granted a license. Mrs. Belle Sinclair was granted a license to conduct an auto livery.

The police committee is to get the police alarm system repaired for use.

Bills were allowed and the council adjourned.

NOTICE

A meeting of organized labor will hold Tuesday evening, Aug. 2nd at Trades and Labor hall. Business of importance will be transacted.

GET BAND WAGON FOR THE BAND

Brainerd Municipal Band Getting So Popular That Every Part of the Town Wants Concerts

BAND TO PLAY AT CARNIVAL

In the Old Days Brainerd Actually Had a Gilded Circus Wagon For Its Musicians

Every section of Brainerd is anxious to stage a band concert and have the Brainerd Municipal band play. The council is besieged with requests and every ward is setting forth its merits and the appetite for music engendered and which can only be satisfied by a program of popular and classical music.

One citizen, an old timer, made the suggestion that the city revert to the custom of the old days in Brainerd when the band had a gilded chariot which loomed up and flashed as good in the sunlight as any Rhoda Royal circus band wagon. Eight horses pulled the equipage and there was great rivalry as to who should handle the ribbons.

The band wagon and Charley Hughes' hotel bus were stored in the same Commercial Hotel yard and one day the hotel burned in the big fire of what was then the business district of Brainerd near where the new court house stands.

And what do you think the citizens tried to save first?

The hotel or the band wagon?

It was the band wagon. There was a flaming arch that it had to be pulled through and in the excitement the Charley Hughes bus and the band wagon wedged in the commotion and band wagon, bus and hotel went up in smoke.

The idea of having a portable band, of having an established route with a time table so that every ward may know just when there will be some music, is quite a thought-provoking one. In other words the band wagon would serve the purpose of a portable band stand.

Business Manager "Andy" Anderson has more than once jokingly said that a band wagon was the only solution to satisfy the whole town.

BUYING BUICKS

John T. Imgrund and Son Jack of the Imgrund Auto Co. at Minneapolis Buying Cars

John T. Imgrund and son Jack of the Imgrund Auto Co. were at Minneapolis and bought a quota of Buicks. They looked over the new four featured by the Buick people and expect to sell many of them. Contracts for 1922 were made.

The Imgrund's are confident of a big trade revival and with the pickup in other lines of business it necessarily follows that automobiles will also be favorably affected.

There are many satisfied Buick owners in Brainerd and vicinity as the car is peculiarly adapted to Minnesota. Some satisfaction was also expressed by the firm over the reported recovery of their Buick recently stolen from a city park. Further developments in recovery of car and the prosecution of the thieves who made away with it will be followed with interest by Brainerd people.

Announcing The New Buick "Four"

A Thoroughbred
Four, Completing
the Famed Buick
Line

The Buick Valve-
in-Head Engine
A Power Plant
That Has Proved
Itself—

The new Four-Cylinder Buick, here announced, is a thoroughbred—a pedigreed car well worthy of its name.

Down to the very last detail, this new model possesses every quality of enduring serviceability, complete comfort, and distinctive appearance that have always characterized Buick automobiles.

The advent of this new Four makes the Buick 1922 line complete. It offers to purchasers of a car of this size all the quality and service that go to make up the name "Buick."

The engine, of course, is of the time-tested Buick Valve-in-Head type. The year-after-year concentration of Buick's engineering skill and experience in building Valve-in-Head motors assures the highest standard of performance obtainable today.

Every other unit is of a quality equal to the power plant. The whole assembly constitutes a perfectly balanced chassis which is of typical Buick construction. The equipment of Cord Tires is merely evidence of the quality which characterizes the entire car.

Two open and two closed body types mounted on the Buick built chassis comprise the new series.

Even the most casual inspection of the details of design and workmanship will reveal that full measure of quality which motorists have learned to associate with Buick.

Obviously a high grade automobile—a genuine Buick production—the prices listed below make this great Four even greater. A value such as this is possible only because of the combination of Buick engineering skill devoted to the one ideal of quality, Buick production facilities developed over nearly a quarter of a century, and Buick's nation-wide distribution and service organization.

The Buick Motor Company is proud of the Buick Four. It has the faith of long experience in this newest addition to its line. It places upon it unreservedly the Buick guarantee carried by every Buick automobile produced. That its confidence is well placed is manifested not only by the keen interest with which motorists have awaited this announcement, but also the advance orders placed by distributors, dealers, and the general public.

Horse Shoe Pitching Notes

In the second tournament held by the Brainerd Horse Shoe Pitching club on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of last week some very remarkable records were made.

Without doubt the score made by Oscar Nelson in the singles when pitching his 200 shoes is a record that will stand against all comers a long time if it ever can be beaten at all.

The contest consisted of fifty shoes pitched on each of the four courts making a total of two hundred shoes, every shoe remaining within eight inches of the stake to count one point and every ringer three. His scores were as follows, 74-71-65-83, total 293. He made 59 ringers including 9 double ringers.

The scores of prize winners and others who competed are as follows: Single—Nelson 293, Beggs 224, Engbretson 222, Kelsen 198, Avery 196, Buckley 192, Magnan 190, Dunbar 182, Russell 177, Bushey 177, Frayer 175, Miller 166, Warner 160, Hickethier 156, Blake 155, Varner 151, Fox 128 and Jelacic 123.

Double—Kelsen and Blake 201, Engbretson and Bushey 183, Miller and Russell 180, Nelson and Warner 177, Beggs and Buckley 177, Frayer and Jelacic 174, Varner and Avery 173 and Dunbar and Hickethier 158.

In the singles there was a handicap as follows, Nelson and Engbretson each 40 points, Kelson 20 points, Beggs, Miller, Magnan and Frayer each 10 points.

ENTRICO CARUSO, WORLD'S GREATEST TENOR IS DEAD

only consolation was that Caruso claimed in every section of the world as a favorite, had come home to die.

SON BOWED WITH GRIEF

Culver, Ind., Aug. 2.—Mimi Caruso, son of the great tenor who died today in Naples, was bowed in grief when informed by the United Press of his father's death. The son, who has been staying at Culver Military Academy, was stricken with sorrow and could not talk of his plans. He has not decided whether to leave for Italy pending receipt of word from Naples.

CAN'T REPLACE HIM

New York, Aug. 2.—"There is no body who can replace Caruso. He was the world's greatest singer the world has ever seen. There never was an artist like him and there never will be his like again."

That is how Alfred Human, director and editor of the Musical World of America, answered the question put to him today by the United Press: "Who can replace Caruso?"

"Caruso", said Human, "was a unique figure—I might say the most unique in all history of music. There has never been a single man, artist or composer, with such remarkable personality as the great hearted man who lulled sorrow and stirred the emotions of thousands as no other could."

"Even a man like Beethoven failed where Caruso gained the reward of a deserving world acclamation."

The APOLLO
Expression PLAYER

To explain in words what the instrument will do is an impossibility. The only way for anyone to appreciate its wonderful performance, is to hear it. Realizing this, we have arranged a great series of concerts of which this is one, in which the playing of the above named artists and many others will be reproduced by the Apollo.

Do not miss the opportunity of hearing this new epoch-making instrument. You will hear music played better than you have ever heard it played before, the memory of which will remain with you forever.

You are cordially invited to this concert which will be given

A New Instrument of a New Era

As makers of the first 88 note player piano and specialists in the development of artistic Grand Pianos and Reproducing Pianos, we know we are offering an instrument far beyond anything previously manufactured.

It does away with the old fashioned, loud sounding, "mechanical" player piano.

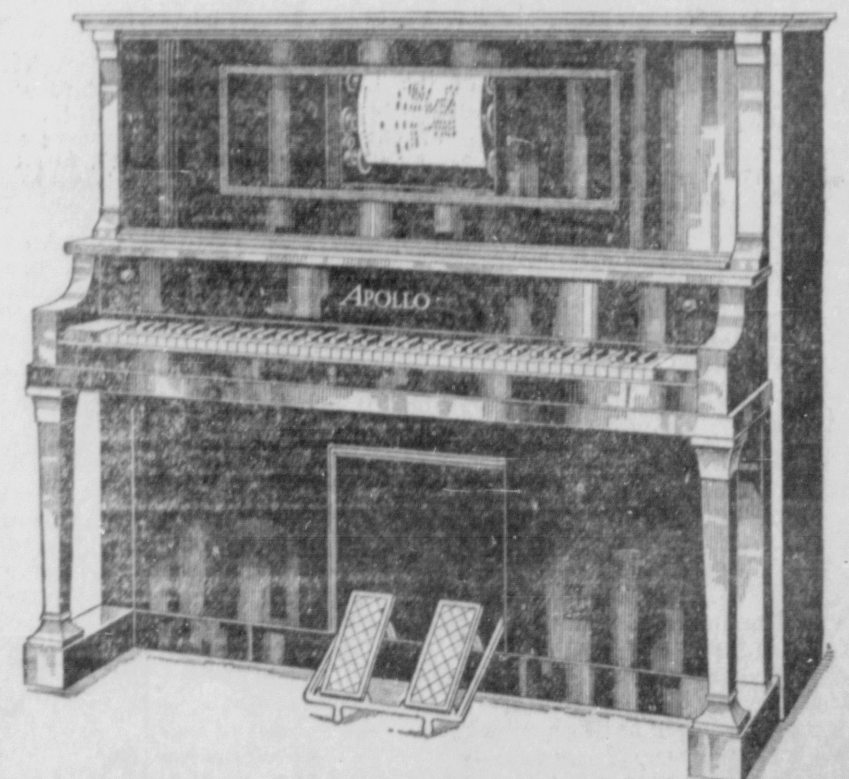

No skill is required for its operation. You can play it with beautiful expression the very first time you try.

It pedals easier than the ordinary player because of the celebrated Apollo spring motor.

Do not fail to hear the Apollo.

Oman and Its People

Native Women of Oman.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

But a step from lands first and longest known in the history of the world—Egypt, Babylon, Palestine—Arabia remains one of the world's most unknown regions. And in one of its least known corners is the independent state of Oman. Historically, politically and geographically, Oman has always been isolated from the rest of Arabia. Ever since the days of the caliphate, so far as communication with other Arabs is concerned, Oman was practically an island, with a sea of water on two sides and a sea of sand—the great Arabian desert—on the other. As a result, the people are even more primitive in their habits than the Arabs generally; and only recently have other towns than Muscat, the capital, opened their eyes to the world.

Oman is a relatively narrow strip of coast, bowed around the irregular eastern tip of Arabia. To the northwest it extends half way along the southern shore of the Persian gulf, into the head of which empty the historic Tigris and Euphrates rivers. From there it extends in a crooked, unbroken strip of varying width for nearly 1,000 miles, its southwestern extremity reaching almost to the mid point of the flaring south shore of the Arabian peninsula.

The state has an area of 82,000 square miles, almost twice that of Pennsylvania. Although generally accepted statistics place the population at 800,000, Colonel Miles, who has seen more of the interior than any other recent traveler, estimates it at over 1,000,000. The capital, Muscat, and the adjoining town of Murrab, have together about 25,000 inhabitants. The ancient capital, Irbat, which is inland, declined in importance after the Portuguese, during the remarkable growth of their colonial power in the sixteenth century, pushed around the Cape of Good Hope and northward and eastward, occupying Muscat. The Portuguese remained in possession of this metropolis of Oman from 1508 until the middle of the seventeenth century.

Was Almost an Empire.

The conquerors of Oman who gave it its present ruling family came from Yemen on the other side of Arabia. Ahmed bin Sa'ed, the leader, captured Muscat in 1741. The present sultan and imam, who came to the throne in 1913, is a descendant of this eighteenth century conqueror.

At the beginning of the nineteenth century, before European powers had determined upon the almost complete parceling out of Africa, Oman was almost an empire. It extended over a large part of Arabia, the islands to the north of Arabia in the Persian gulf, a strip of the southern coast of Persia, and a strip of the Indian ocean coast of Africa from the north-eastern point near the entrance to the Red sea almost half way to the Cape of Good Hope. This African territory, including Zanzibar, comprised large parts of what later became Italian Somaliland, British East Africa and German East Africa. It also included the important island of Socotra at the mouth of the Gulf of Aden, now under British control.

At that time the slave trade was flourishing, and it was the Arabs of Oman who explored the great interior of Africa long before the days of Speke and Livingstone. On the death in 1856 of Oman's "Alexander," the Sultan Sa'ed, the empire began to break up, one son becoming sultan of Zanzibar and another sultan of the Arabian territory. Subsequently all Asiatic possessions outside Arabia were lost, except a few islands in the Persian gulf. About this time Oman came under the virtual protection of Great Britain through the Indian government, and a British consul was maintained at Muscat.

One of the most picturesque parts of Oman is the so-called Pirate coast, just within the great point of land which almost closes the mouth of the Persian gulf, the sailing ground of Sinbad the Sailor. This region was a base of operation for pirates as troublesome in the first half of the nineteenth century of the Indian and Persian trade as were the Caribbean pirate nests to the ships that plied between Panama and Europe a century or so earlier. The inhabitants of the Pirate coast were extremely fanatical as well, which added to their trouble-making qualities. British gunboats, with the assistance of Indian forces put an end to the depredations, and the one-time pirates of this region have now mostly turned to pearl diving for a living.

Trip Through the Country.

A journey from the Pirate coast across the base of the great point of Oman to Sohr or some of the adjacent ports, a trip of about 100 miles, gives an excellent idea of the back country of this little-known state. Caravans making this trip usually travel at night and rest under whatever shade may be found during the day. On the second day one passes villages and cultivated fields and at night sleeps surrounded by thousands of sheep and goats, driven in by Bedouin lasses from their mountain pastures. Even among these shepherds one finds readers, and colporteurs sell books wherever the camels halt long enough to strike a bargain. In entering the narrow pass of Hitta, the guides go ahead mounted, with rifles loaded and cocked.

Travelers are not troubled with the heat at night, but during the day it is intense, and it is refreshing to come to an oasis (common in this part of Oman), where water bursts from a big spring, and trees and flowers grow in luxury. In the mountainous parts of Oman the roads run almost invariably along the wady beds; sometimes these are sandy wafer courses; again deep, rocky ravines or broad, fertile valleys. Vegetation generally is tolerably abundant. Tamarisks, oleanders, euphorbia, and acacias are the most common trees and shrubs.

Some of It Unexplored.

Although some travelers have reached the edge of the Oman desert, all the country beyond is still largely terra incognita. No one has ever made the journey beyond the range of mountains or solved the mystery of western Oman, which is still a blank on the best maps; nor is anything known of the land 100 miles southwest of Muscat save by Arab hearsay.

The most populous and fertile district of the highlands of Oman is Jebel Akhdar, which is also the best known. The fertility of this region is wonderful and in striking contrast with the barren rocks of so large a part of the coast. With a semi-tropical climate, an elevation of 3,000 to 5,000 feet, and abundant springs, the wadis and oases of Oman have awakened the delight and amazement of every traveler who has ventured to explore them. Water, the one priceless treasure in all Arabia, here issues in perennial streams from many rocky clefts, and is most carefully husbanded by the ingenuity of the people for wide irrigation by means of canals or water-courses called falaj.

Except along the Pirate coast the Arabs of Oman are remarkably free from fanaticism, simple in their habits, and wonderful in their hospitality. Most of them belong to the Abadhi sect, which has many beliefs in common with Christianity.

SALTS IN HOT WATER CLEAR PIMPLY SKIN

Says We Must Make Kidneys Clean the Blood and Pimples Disappear

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal activity, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear; cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.

Their Medicine Chest For 20 Years

It is characteristic of folks after they pass the allotted "three score years and ten," to look back over the days that are gone and thoughtfully live them over.

I find myself, at seventy-one, frequently drifting back a quarter of a century, when I see myself in the little drug store I owned at Bolivar, Mo., making and selling a vegetable compound to my friends and customers—what was then known only as Dr. Lewis' Medicine for Stomach, Liver and Bowel Complaints.

For many years while I was perfecting my formula I studied and investigated the laxatives and cathartics on the market and became convinced that their main fault was not that they did not act on the bowels, but that their action was too violent and drastic, and upset the system of the user; which was due to the fact that they were not thoroughly enough in their action, simply acting on the upper or small intestine, while others would act only on the lower or large intestine, and that they almost invariably produced a habit requiring augmented doses.

I believed that a preparation to produce the best effect must first tone the liver, then act on the stomach and entire alimentary system. If this was accomplished, the medicine would produce a mild, but thorough elimination of the waste without the usual sickening sensations, and make the user feel better at once.

After experimenting with hundreds of different compounds, I at last perfected the formula that is now known as Nature's Remedy, which I truly believe goes further and does more than any laxative on the market today. The thousands of letters from users have convinced me I was right, and that the user of Nature's Remedy as a family medicine, even though he may have used it for twenty-five years, never has to increase the dose.

My knowledge of medicine and the results of its use in my own family and among my friends, before I ever offered it for sale, caused me to have great faith in Nature's Remedy from the very first.

And now as I find myself nearing the age when I must bow to the inevitable and go to another life, my greatest pleasure is to sit each day and read the letters that each mail brings from people as old or older than I, who tell of having used Nature's Remedy for ten, fifteen and twenty years, and how they and their children and grandchildren have been benefited by it.

It is a consoling thought, my friends, for a man at my age to feel that aside from his own success, one has done something for his fellow man. My greatest satisfaction, my greatest happiness today, is the knowledge that tonight more than one million people will take a Nature's Remedy (NR Tablet) and will be better, healthier, happier people for it. I hope you will be one of them.

HOWARD ELLIOT OPTIMISTIC

Howard Elliot, chairman of the Northern Pacific railway, has returned from a 6,000 mile tour of the Pacific Northwest and Canada, and is quite optimistic over the outlook. "Everywhere I went," he said, "there was a feeling of hope and belief that conditions would be better; and in few places did I find any feeling of pessimism. The economic upheaval in North Dakota seems to have done its worst."

"The outlook for agricultural production is good. Minnesota crops will be above the average and North Dakota's will be considerable. Even though the excessive heat and drought of the last three weeks have reduced the prospects, Montana, Idaho, Oregon and Washington will have a production in grain, grasses and fruits above the average crops in the Northern Pacific states will be good taken as a whole."

CAUSE OF FOREST FIRES

W. T. Cox, state forester, presented some interesting figures in a report just completed. Forest fires in Northern Minnesota burned over an area of 38,243 acres, causing damage estimated at more than $50,000, during March and up to July 1 last. The service of 1,573 fire fighters were required to combat this forest menace. The number of fires reported during the period named was 278, of which 48 are attributed to railroads, 49 to brush burning, 11 to burning meadows, 71 to unknown origin, 13 to autoist and campers, 2 to road crews, 1 to lightning, and 2 were reported as being maliciously set, the cause of 69 fires was not recorded by the various northwest rangers.

Announcement is made by Secretary Weeks that since March 1, 1921 the force of the civilians employed by the War Department in the District of Columbia and outside, aggregating 90,106 persons, has been reduced by 21,174, making an estimated annual saving of $35,508,800. Secretary Weeks said that further reductions would be made gradually as public business permitted.

The blueberry crop was very light in the vicinity of Brainerd this year but it appears to have been good throughout the northwestern part of the state. The cannery at Brandette has canned over fifty tons of blueberries this season.

Secretary Hoover has sent letters to the governors of the various states to let their contracts for road construction in the fall rather than in the spring, as a means of relieving the unemployment situation. This would give the men employment during the winter.

In his effort toward disarmament President Harding appears to have the hearty good wishes of many of his political opponents.

Hard Question to Answer.

Bobbie was fond of big words, and never let a chance slip by of using one. He did not, however, always get them in the right place. He was sickened with an attack of measles. The doctor calling one day, took up a hand mirror and showed Bobbie how he looked. Bobbie gazed at his mottled face disgustedly in the mirror, and then looking up to the doctor, asked, "When do you think I will be back to civilization?"

Manufacturing Billiard Balls.

Quite large elephant tusks are a requisite in the making of billiard balls. They are first cut into the required length, forming blocks from which the balls are to be carved. These blocks are placed in the hands of expert tracers who mark the standard measurements of circumference, after which the block goes to the cutter and is gradually cut by machine into spherical form. The process of polishing is done after six months, during which period the balls are kept in special dark drying chambers.

RESERVES TO BE MADE EFFECTIVE

SOME OUTSTANDING FEATURES OF NEW MILITARY POLICY OF THE GOVERNMENT.

PLAN FOR NATIONAL DEFENSE

Surplus Officers of Regular Army to Develop the Volunteer Organizations That Will Constitute War Force in Event of Emergency.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington.—Under the new military policy of the government the reserve officers' training corps and the citizens' training corps became an essential part of the fighting organization. Available officers and enlisted men of the regular army may be assigned appropriate duties in connection with the National Guard, the organized reserve officers' training corps and the training camps. Citizen officers are to join with regular officers on the general staff in the preparation of policies relating to the organization and training of the National Guard and the organized reserves.

The war force required for immediate mobilization in the event of emergency is to be constituted in time of peace and filled as far as practicable through the enrollment or enlistment of qualified volunteers. Under such a system it is reasonable to expect that the units of the National Guard will be maintained at sufficient strength to be effective as a first re-enforcement for the regular army, and that the units of the organized reserves will at least include a corps of officers, noncommissioned officers and specialists, organized and trained to receive and train recruits required in an emergency demanding the large forces.

It is with the requirements of this larger war establishment in view that the peace organization of the regular army must be determined. The law provides a limited number of regular enlisted men and a number of regular officers in excess of the number required for service with the regular army proper.

Work for Surplus Officers.

This provision shows clearly the intention of congress that a portion of the officers authorized are to be employed in the organization, administration and development of the National Guard, the organized reserves, the reserve officers' training corps and the citizens' training camps. It is the President's desire that the regular army shall be so organized as to carry out this intent of congress to the fullest extent.

As the regular army now contains more regiments and other units than can be maintained at effective strength with the authorized enlisted personnel, it is proposed to retain a suitable number of units at an enlisted strength effective for immediate military service and to place the units thus rendered surplus "out of commission" until such time as congress shall authorize an increase in the enlisted strength of the regular army. There will be assigned to the organizations retained "in commission" a sufficient number of officers to make them effective for immediate military service, leaving officers not required for service with regular organizations or otherwise to be employed in the development of the National Guard, the organized reserves and the reserve officers' training corps. As the law provides for a military expansion by re-enforcement of the regular army from the organized citizen forces, the President has directed that these forces shall be developed to the fullest extent, and that the maximum practicable number of carefully selected officers of the regular army be employed for that purpose. The retention in the regular army of skeletonized military units ineffective for immediate military service is not deemed advisable.

Will Effect Economies.

It is the view of the administration that the organization of the regular army into a limited number of effective military units will not only release a greater proportion of officers for duty with the other portions of the army of the United States, but will facilitate great economies in the maintenance of the peace establishment. So far as practicable it is the desire of the department that the regular army should be quartered in permanent military posts where suitable shelter for officers and men is now provided. This will reduce the number of occupied war-time cantonments to a minimum and will avoid the necessity of expending large sums for their maintenance or removal.

As the secretary of war interprets the intent of congress in providing for the division of the country into corps areas, their primary object is to form decentralized organization for the promotion and development of the National Guard, the organized reserves and the reserve officers' training corps. The secretary of war has notified old officers that it is his desire that corps area commanders should be liberally supplied with competent officers to assist them in the performance of their duties, and should be held responsible for the development of the national military resources within their several areas as prescribed by law.

AMUSEMENTS

At the Lyceum
 "A Master Stroke" is the title of the Earle Williams feature which is being shown at the Lyceum theater tonight for the last time.

It is an adaptation from a popular novel by Frederic Van Rensselaer Dey, the scenario having been prepared by H. Thompson Rich and Lucien Hubbard. The story is written on an exciting Wall street theme, and the leading role fits Mr. Williams well. It is a tense story, filled with thrills, many of which were taken in the mountains near Los Angeles.

May Allison Coming

"The Last Card," which will be shown tomorrow at the Lyceum theater, where it comes for a run of two days, has several features about it which make it stand out distinctively from the average type of pictures.

It is a Bayard Veiller production, personally directed by the famous author of "Within the Law," "The Thirteenth Chair" and other stirring melodramas; it was adapted from "Dated," the story by Maxwell Smith, which created such a sensation when it appeared in the covers of the Saturday Evening Post; and last but not least, it is a picture with May Allison in the stellar role.

The Double Star Program at the New Park Very Pleasing

The new departure of running two stars on one program certainly make a splendid evening's entertainment.

As a farmer boy, with a burning desire to make a name for himself as a detective, Charles Ray gives a spirited and pleasing performance in "A Village Sleuth."

Winifred Westover makes an attractive leading woman for Mr. Ray. Jerry Storm directed and Agnes Christine Johnson wrote the story.

Thomas Santschi in "Outside the Border" gives a wonderful portrayal of brother love and self sacrifice, in this first of his western features. The program pleased everyone and will be repeated again tonight for the last time. If you like real entertainment don't miss this.

Tomorrow Elsie Ferguson in "Lady Roses Daughter" will be the feature attraction.

Fifty Years of Life.

A French statistician has been dabbling with figures to find out just what man does with that precious thing called time. He concludes that at the age of fifty years the average man has slept 6,000 days, worked 6,500, walked 800, amused himself 4,000, spent 1,500 eating, and has been ill 500 days.

"Lobby" and "Lobbyists."

The word lobby is derived from the Latin "lobia," a portico, covered way or gallery, and in the modern sense refers to such a hall as an anteroom in a theater or adjacent to a legislative or audience chamber, where private persons are permitted to enter for the purpose of consulting with the members. In the political vocabulary of the United States, the term refers also to the persons who frequent this place for the purpose of influencing the votes of the legislators. Hence they are called "lobbyists" and their business "lobbying."

Every section of Brainerd is anxious to stage a band concert and have the Brainerd Municipal band play. The council is besieged with requests and every ward is setting forth its merits and the appetite for music engendered and which can only be satisfied by a program of popular and classical music.

One citizen, an old timer, made the suggestion that the city revert to the custom of the old days in Brainerd when the band had a gilded chariot which loomed up and flashed as good in the sunlight as any Rhoda Royal circus band wagon. Eight horses pulled the equipage and there was great rivalry as to who should handle the ribbons.

The band wagon and Charley Hughes' hotel bus were stored in the same Commercial Hotel yard and one day the hotel burned in the big fire of what was then the business district of Brainerd near where the new court house stands.

And what do you think the citizens tried to save first?

The hotel or the band wagon?

It was the band wagon. There was a flaming arch that it had to be pulled through and in the excitement the Charley Hughes bus and the band wagon wedged in the commotion and band wagon, bus and hotel went up in smoke.

The idea of having a portable band, of having an established route with a time table so that every ward may know just when there will be some music, is quite a thought-provoking one. In other words the band wagon would serve the purpose of a portable band stand.

Business Manager "Andy" Anderson has more than once jokingly said that a band wagon was the only solution to satisfy the whole town.

BUYING BUICKS

John T. Imgrund and Son Jack of the Imgrund Auto Co. at Minneapolis Buying Cars

John T. Imgrund and son Jack of the Imgrund Auto Co. were at Minneapolis and bought a quota of Buicks. They looked over the new four featured by the Buick people and expect to sell many of them. Contracts for 1922 were made.

The Imgrund's are confident of a big trade revival and with the pickup in other lines of business it necessarily follows that automobiles will also be favorably affected.

There are many satisfied Buick owners in Brainerd and vicinity as the car is peculiarly adapted to Minnesota. Some satisfaction was also expressed by the firm over the reported recovery of their Buick recently stolen from a city park. Further developments in recovery of car and the prosecution of the thieves who made away with it will be followed with interest by Brainerd people.

Announcing The New Buick "Four"

—A Thoroughbred
Four, Completing
the Famed Buick
Line

The Buick Valve-
in-Head Engine
A Power Plant
That Has Proved
Itself—

The new Four-Cylinder Buick, here announced, is a thoroughbred—a pedigreed car well worthy of its name.

Down to the very last detail, this new model possesses every quality of enduring serviceability, complete comfort, and distinctive appearance that have always characterized Buick automobiles.

The advent of this new Four makes the Buick 1922 line complete. It offers to purchasers of a car of this size all the quality and service that go to make up the name "Buick."

The engine, of course, is of the time-tested Buick Valve-in-Head type. The year-after-year concentration of Buick's engineering skill and experience in building Valve-in-Head motors assures the highest standard of performance obtainable today.

Every other unit is of a quality equal to the power plant. The whole assembly constitutes a perfectly balanced chassis which is of typical Buick construction. The equipment of Cord Tires is merely evidence of the quality which characterizes the entire car.

Two open and two closed body types mounted on the Buick built chassis comprise the new series.

Even the most casual inspection of the details of design and workmanship will reveal that full measure of quality which motorists have learned to associate with Buick.

Obviously a high grade automobile—a genuine Buick production—the prices listed below make this great Four even greater. A value such as this is possible only because of the combination of Buick engineering skill devoted to the one ideal of quality, Buick production facilities developed over nearly a quarter of a century, and Buick's nation-wide distribution and service organization.

The Buick Motor Company is proud of the Buick Four. It has the faith of long experience in this newest addition to its line. It places upon it unreservedly the Buick guarantee carried by every Buick automobile produced. That its confidence is well placed is manifested not only by the keen interest with which motorists have awaited this announcement, but also the advance orders placed by distributors, dealers, and the general public.

Oman and Its People

Native Women of Oman.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

But a step from lands first and longest known in the history of the world—Egypt, Babylon, Palestine—Arabia remains one of the world's most unknown regions. And in one of its least known corners is the independent state of Oman. Historically, politically and geographically, Oman has always been isolated from the rest of Arabia. Ever since the days of the caliphate, so far as communication with other Arabs is concerned, Oman was practically an island, with a sea of water on two sides and a sea of sand—the great Arabian desert—on the other. As a result, the people are even more primitive in their habits than the Arabs generally; and only recently have other towns than Muscat, the capital, opened their eyes to the world.

Oman is a relatively narrow strip of coast, bowed around the irregular eastern tip of Arabia. To the north-west it extends half way along the southern shore of the Persian gulf, into the head of which empty the historic Tigris and Euphrates rivers. From there it extends in a crooked, unbroken strip of varying width for nearly 1,000 miles, its southwestern extremity reaching almost to the mid point of the flaring south shore of the Arabian peninsula.

The state has an area of 82,000 square miles, almost twice that of Pennsylvania. Although generally accepted statistics place the population at 800,000, Colonel Miles, who has seen more of the interior than any other recent traveler, estimates it at over 1,000,000. The capital, Muscat, and the adjoining town of Mutrah, have together about 25,000 inhabitants. The ancient capital, Rustak, which is inland, declined in importance after the Portuguese, during the remarkable growth of their colonial power in the sixteenth century, pushed around the Cape of Good Hope and northward and eastward, occupying Muscat. The Portuguese remained in possession of this metropolis of Oman from 1585 until the middle of the seventeenth century.

Was Almost an Empire.

The conquerors of Oman who gave it its present ruling family came from Yemen on the other side of Arabia. Ahmed bin Sa'eed, the leader, captured Muscat in 1741. The present sultan and imam, who came to the throne in 1913, is a descendant of this eighteenth century conqueror.

At the beginning of the nineteenth century, before European powers had determined upon the almost complete parcelling out of Africa, Oman was almost an empire. It extended over a large part of Arabia, the islands to the north of Arabia in the Persian gulf, a strip of the southern coast of Persia, and a strip of the Indian ocean coast of Africa from the north-eastern point near the entrance to the Red sea almost half way to the Cape of Good Hope. This African territory including Zanzibar, comprised large parts of what later became Italian Somaliland, British East Africa and German East Africa. It also included the important island of Socotra at the mouth of the Gulf of Aden, now under British control.

At that time the slave trade was flourishing, and it was the Arabs of Oman who explored the great interior of Africa long before the days of Speke and Livingstone. On the death in 1856 of Oman's "Alexander," the Sultan Sa'eed, the empire began to break up, one son becoming sultan of Zanzibar and another sultan of the Arabian territory. Subsequently all Asiatic possessions outside Arabia were lost, except a few islands in the Persian gulf. About this time Oman came under the virtual protection of Great Britain through the Indian government, and a British consul and political agent has since been maintained at Muscat.

One of the most picturesque parts of Oman is the so-called Pirate coast, just within the great point of land which almost closes the mouth of the Persian gulf, the sailing ground of Sinbad the Sailor. This region was a base of operation for pirates as troublesome in the first half of the nineteenth century of the Indian and Persian trade as were the Caribbean pirate nests to the ships that plied between Panama and Europe a century or so earlier. The inhabitants of the Pirate coast were extremely fanatical as well, which added to their trouble-making qualities. British gunboats, with the assistance of Indian forces put an end to the depredations, and the one-time pirates of this region have now mostly turned to pearl diving for a living.

Trip Through the Country.

A journey from the Pirate coast across the base of the great point of Oman to Sohr or some of the adjacent ports, a trip of about 100 miles, gives an excellent idea of the back country of this little-known state. Caravans making this trip usually travel at night and rest under whatever shade may be found during the day. On the second day one passes villages and cultivated fields and at night sleeps surrounded by thousands of sheep and goats, driven in by Bedouin lasses from their mountain pastures. Even among these shepherds one finds riders, and colporteurs sell books wherever the camels halt long enough to strike a bargain. In entering the narrow pass of Hitta, the guides go ahead mounted, with rifles loaded and cocked.

Travelers are not troubled with the heat at night, but during the day it is intense, and it is refreshing to come to an oasis (common in this part of Oman), where water bursts from a big spring, and trees and flowers grow in luxury. In the mountainous parts of Oman the roads run almost invariably along the wady beds; sometimes these are sandy wady courses; again deep, rocky ravines or broad, fertile valleys. Vegetation generally is tolerably abundant. Tamarisks, oleanders, euphorbias, and acacias are the most common trees and shrubs.

Some of It Unexplored.

Although some travelers have reached the edge of the Oman desert, all the country beyond is still largely terra incognita. No one has ever made the journey beyond the range of mountains or solved the mystery of western Oman, which is still a blank on the best maps; nor is anything known of the land 100 miles southwest of Muscat save by Arab hearsay.

The most populous and fertile district of the highlands of Oman is Jebel Akhdar, which is also the best known. The fertility of this region is wonderful and in striking contrast with the barren rocks of so large a part of the coast. With a semi-tropical climate, an elevation of 3,000 to 5,000 feet, and abundant springs, the wadis and oases of Oman have awakened the delight and amazement of every traveler who has ventured to explore them. Water, the one priceless treasure in all Arabia, here issues in perennial streams from many rocky clefts, and is most carefully husbanded by the ingenuity of the people for wide irrigation by means of canals or water-courses called falaj.

Except along the Pirate coast the Arabs of Oman are remarkably free from fanaticism, simple in their habits, and wonderful in their hospitality. Most of them belong to the Ahadli sect, which has many beliefs in common with Christianity.

SALTS IN HOT WATER CLEAR PIMPLY SKIN

Says We Must Make Kidneys Clean the Blood and Pimples Disappear

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal activity, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear; cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.

Their Medicine Chest For 20 Years

It is characteristic of folks after they pass the allotted "three score years and ten," to look back over the days that are gone and thoughtfully live them over.

I find myself, at seventy-one, frequently drifting back a quarter of a century, when I see myself in the little drug store I owned at Bolivar, Mo., making and selling a vegetable compound to my friends and customers—what was then known only as Dr. Lewis' Medicine for Stomach, Liver and Bowel Complaints.

For many years while I was perfecting my formula I studied and investigated the laxatives and cathartics on the market, and became convinced that their main fault was not that they did not act on the bowels, but that their action was too violent and drastic, and upset the system of the user; which was due to the fact that they were not thorough enough in their action, some simply acting on the upper or small intestine, while others would act only on the lower or large intestine, and that they almost invariably produced a habit requiring augmented doses.

I believed that a preparation to produce the best effect must first tone the liver, then act on the stomach and entire alimentary system. If this was accomplished, the medicine would produce a mild, but thorough elimination of the waste without the usual sickening sensations, and make the user feel better at once.

After experimenting with hundreds of different compounds, I at last perfected the formula that is now known as Nature's Remedy, which I truly believe goes farther and does more than any laxative on the market today. The thousands of letters from users have convinced me I was right, and that the user of Nature's Remedy as a family medicine, even though he may have used it for twenty-five years, never has to increase the dose.

My knowledge of medicine and the results of its use in my own family and among my friends, before I ever offered it for sale, caused me to have great faith in Nature's Remedy from the very first. And now as I find myself nearing the age when I must bow to the inevitable and go to another life, my greatest pleasure is to sit each day and read the letters that each mail brings from people as old or older than I, who tell of having used Nature's Remedy for ten, fifteen and twenty years, and how they and their children and grandchildren have been benefited by it.

It is a consoling thought, my friends, for a man at my age to feel that aside from his own success, one has done something for his fellow man. My greatest satisfaction, my greatest happiness today, is the knowledge that tonight more than one million people will take a Nature's Remedy (NR Tablet) and will be better, healthier, happier people for it. I hope you will be one of them.
